The only way that these items have any value is if developers add more to the game and make them items that are actually worth something within your virtual world. If that happens then these fake items will be worth even more than what you paid for them originally because the developers added real content to the game.

Chris Hutchins, the Vice President of Developer Relations at Roblox, has said that Roblox is hiring. The current number of users that have worked for Roblox is 17,000 and they hire about 400 employees each year.

I don't really have an answer for you, but I'm sure this is a problem that other people have as well. I think the game needs to be made less serious because people will not want to spend money on fake money (robux) if they know there's no real value behind those items they purchased with their fake money. The best way to accomplish this would be to make hats, shirts, etcetera for gamers who spend more than a certain amount of money.

On July 27th, 2018, ROBLOX announced that they were going to be having an "open beta" of a new in-game currency system that would allow users to buy and sell virtual currency. This feature was added to the site in 2015, but this was the first time that it was open to everyone. This new system came with a "Queueing" system similar to YouTube's order form, which many game creators saw as useful in saving time from waiting for transactions manually. Users can still trade with each other if they wish to do so.[23]
