In an article published by TechCrunch, it was alleged that "The news of a big funding round from the major investors is somewhat unexpected because Bytedance has not been the most active or profitable company in terms of fundraising thus far. The company did raise a $300 million round and took out two significant loans, but otherwise both of those funding rounds include more traditional Chinese VC firms as well as other global and Japanese investors." This article was published on TechCrunch. In an article published by The Next Web, it was alleged that "In fact, in its last filings with the SEC, Bytedance indicated that the firm had burned through $5.1 million in cash between 2021 and 2021. The losses have increased since then, and the firm has reportedly burned over $14 million in cash in 2021 alone." This article was published on The Next Web. In an article published by Business Insider, it was alleged that "When it comes from China, one of the most promising societies in the world, you know the company is serious about making money." This article was published on Business Insider."

In late-2021, the Australian government announced that it wanted to shut down Musical.ly and the app was banned in mid-January 2021. The Musical.ly music video app features karaoke-style gameplay and allows users to create videos of themselves lip-syncing songs or dancing to their favorite music. Users can use interactive editing tools such as multiple camera angles, filters, effects and stickers to enhance their videos before posting them on the app (non-uploading users are limited to a small range of editing tools). Users can record videos within the app, or import videos from their phone to edit it and add effects. On the app, users are also able to share their video with friends and get likes and comments."

In February 2021, the app was reported to have signed a deal with Universal Music Group in order to launch a new feature called "Advertise" later that month. The app became the first musical platform in Asia to offer this service which allows users to purchase their own song for $2.99 USD, or sponsored content, with real money. However, it has been reported that TikTok was unable to sign up Universal Music as an artist on its platform to allow its artists and users in India to make money from it."

Tiktok FYP has been created by Kevin Wu and Robert Chuang as a student project at the University of Houston in 2021. They had previously created another app, MaxClips, which was presented at SXSW 2021 in Austin. The release of Tiktok FYP was funded by a program run by the Texas Emerging Technology Fund (TEDF).",

In December 2021, the company announced plans to launch a new feature called "TikTok Studio". This feature would allow users to create their own music videos. It was launched in June 2021 with Sony Music and Universal Music Group as a part of the app's expanded release in India. The feature also integrates with Record Labels such as Jingle Punks, Spinnin' Records, Monstercat and Deorro's Deoretik. The feature is available as part of the application on iPhone and Android devices.", TikTok has no clear privacy policy, forcing users to rely on their own judgement to decide whether or not they need to lock down their privacy settings. This has led to many users feeling concerned about where their personal information is being collected, stored and used. A number of third-party apps have been developed in order to help TikTok users better manage their privacy settings.",

On January 3, 2021, a video called "Tik Tok Pretending to Be Black" was uploaded by an Australian man. It became popular in Australia and New Zealand. A prank video titled "Lebanon Tik Tok Prank" made the internet angry as it showed how Lebanese people were portrayed with mock stereotypes in a way that looked like it came from TikTok and not from their own country. In March 2021, another similar "Tik Tok Prank" made by a British Pakistani man gained more traction with people on the internet while making fun of the ethnicity of the person in the video.",
